A remarkable 46% enrollment increase in three years was heralded during Fall 2019 Convocation, while celebrating all our school’s achievements. This increase continues the trend of enrollment increases that have occurred every long semester since Dr. Howard’s installation. The milestone comes at a time when, nationally, college enrollment has become a growing concern. Dr. Howard challenged faculty and staff to meet the goal of enrolling 10,000 (credit and non-credit) students in five years instead of in 10 years (10-in-10).

LIT’s tuition dropped to $1,995, while the TSUS Board of Regents also reduced the fee for dual-credit courses ranging from $75-$110 per semester credit hour, to $50 per credit hour.

Paramedics/EMT Class
Thanks to EMS Program Clinical Director Clint Vannoy, the Paramedics/EMT class learned some life lessons in compassion and service. To help the community recoup from its recent losses from Tropical Storm Imelda, Vannoy charged his students with cleaning and removing debris from damaged property. The group worked on five different houses in one day --all first responder families.

Three students to the rescue
Three LIT students immediately rushed into action as the storm struck, offering tireless service, despite the fact that two of them were in the process of losing their own homes. First-year Instrumentation Technology students Jaron Cooper and Blake Lawrence, and Regional Fire Academy Cadet Taylor Talbert disregarded their own personal losses and safety to help rescue others.

Helping Hands organization
